Booklovers

Join us on Tuesday, August 11 from 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. at the Headquarters Library for a discussion of "So Far Gone" by Jess Walter. Copies of the book are available the month before the discussion at the Multimedia & Fiction desk. This discussion will meet in the Training Lab on the lower level of the building. Contact 864-596-3502 for more information.

Mysteries of Your Brain

The Bell Museum original production Mysteries of Your Brain takes you on an immersive, animated adventure into the human brain, exploring how the brain works and what makes human brains so special. The Bell Museum in collaboration with the UNC Morehead Planetarium and Science Center created an original planetarium production Mysteries of Your Brain. This animated film takes you on an immersive, animated adventure into the human brain, exploring how the brain works and what makes human brains so special. Your tour guides on this journey are a curious girl and her crow companion - together you'll zoom along the paths of neurons, fly through brains and experience illusions on a grand scale. You'll learn how your brain makes you and that, ultimately, we each have the power to change our brains. The work was made possible through generous support from the Richard M. Schulze Family Foundation and Boston Scientific. Doors close promptly at showtime. If you need to leave for any reason, you are welcome to do so, but you will not be able to reenter the theater until the show is finished. Food and drinks are not allowed. Electronic devices should be set to silent. Target audience 6-adult. Loud sounds and bright, flashing lights may affect some audience members. Registration opens two weeks before the show and is required for this free show. The entire presentation runs 35-45 minutes. Visit our website for showtimes and to register. Contact 864-755-7103 for more information.
