Chautauqua: Ernest Hemingway

Thursday, February 5 at 3:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m.

A novelist, journalist and short story writer, Ernest Hemingway (1899-1961) revolutionized all three literary forms with his abbreviated style, earning him the 1953 Pulitzer Prize for The Old Man and the Sea and the 1954 Nobel Prize in Literature. His adventurous life was as rebellious and noteworthy as his writings, making him a celebrity as famous for his exploits as for his writing. It was a life of warring, bull fighting, woman chasing, drinking, big-game hunting and fishing that was romanticized during his lifetime as well as now. A member of the post-war Lost Generation, he married four times and witnessed and wrote about both world wars and the Spanish Civil War. Obsessed with death and living with grace under pressure, Hemingway died by his own hand at age 61. ASL interpretation will be provided at 3:00 p.m. show. Registration required. Contact 864-596-3508 for more information.

Unsolved Mysteries of Saturn's Moons

Tuesday, February 10 at 5:30 p.m.

While we've learned some amazing things about Saturn's moons, there are many open questions about the coterie of satellites and what they can teach us about the evolution of the solar system. This is a forty-five-minute multimedia presentation by NASA Solar System Ambassador David Leaphart. Target audience is 9-adult. Registration opens two weeks before a show. Registration is required for this free show that will take place in The Planetarium Kohler Classroom. Contact 864-755-7103 for more information.

Booklovers

Tuesday, February 10 at 6:30 p.m.

Join us for a discussion of "The Violin Conspiracy" by Brendan Slocumb. Copies of the book are available the month before the discussion at the Multimedia & Fiction desk at the Headquarters Library. This discussion will meet in the Training Lab on the lower level of the building. Contact 854-596-3502 for more information.
